Propositional calculus is a branch of logic. It is also called propositional logic, statement logic, sentential calculus, sentential logic, or sometimes zeroth-order logic. It deals with propositions (which can be true or false) and argument flow. Compound propositions are formed by connecting propositions by logical connectives. The propositions without logical connectives are called atomic ...

This research examines relationships between individuals' perceived psychological safety and engagement in their work. Kahn (1990) effectively launched this stream with his qualitative studies, noted above, of conditions enabling people to personally engage or disengage at work. More recently, Kark & Carmeli (2009) examined the affective components of psychological safety and argued that ...
