Does anybody know how many pixels are in the XL1 CCD's? I know there are about 272,000 pixels but what does that come out to in terms of image size? I figured a SD signal that is 60i would have to have at least 480 lines of resolution or the fields would be messed up. This then leaves us with roughly 566 pixels for a 566 x 480 image.
